Message from Fr. David

The Creed is the at the heart of our Faith. We are focusing on the Faith this year, what is our Faith, how does it affect us, what is our response to God? The Creed is also at the heart of every Sunday Mass: literally to reaffirm out loud what we affirm with our actions. The Creed keeps us at Mass, centered on God and not ourselves. Cardinal Sarah has a great article on how important a God-centric liturgy is to who we are as Christian souls. You can find the full article with the QR code. Here is a portion: "Forgetting about God is the most imminent danger of our age." My brothers and sisters these words, utterly true when they were written in July 2004, have become more and more poignant with each passing year. Our world is marked by the blight of Godless terrorism, of an increasingly aggressive secularism, of a spirit of individualistic consumerism in respect of creation, material goods and even human relationships, and of an advancing culture of death which endangers the right to life of the most vulnerable of our brothers and sisters: the unborn, the unhealthy and the elderly.

In the face of this increasing godlessness we, Christ's holy Church, are called by virtue of our baptism and of our own particular vocation to announce and proclaim that "Christ is the Light of nations" (Lumen Gentium, 1), and "to call the whole of mankind into the household of the Church" (Sacrosanctum Concilium, 1). For the way of Christ and His Church is the path of Truth, Beauty and Goodness, the ultimate consummation of which is unending life in communion with God and all the saints in heaven. Whereas those who choose to walk according to the route laid down by the Prince of Lies risk hell: that ultimate fruit of the free, knowing and willing choice of sin and evil—eternal separation from God and the saints.

My brothers and sisters, we must never forget these eternal verities! Our world has most probably forgotten them. Indeed, particularly in the affluent West, our society seeks to hide these truths from us and to anaesthetise us with the apparent goods it offers to us in its unending cacophony of consumerism, lest we find the time and space to call into question its godless assumptions and practices. We must not succumb to this. We must be untiring in announcing the good news of the Gospel: that sin and death have been conquered by our Lord Jesus Christ whose sacrifice on the Cross has enabled us to gain the forgiveness that our sins demand and to live joyfully in this world and in the sure hope of life without end in the next.
